

---

Numerology Report

Hillary Diane Rodham

October 26, 1947

INTRODUCTION

This report is designed to give you new insights into your character and personality from a perspective considerably different from that which most people use. The descriptions in this report are based on the ancient science of numerology.

The report discusses:

The lessons you are learning in this life, your deep inner desires and how to fulfill them, your talents and personality traits and how to make the best use of them, the environment in which you work best, your attitude toward work, and your ways of relating to other people.

The report can also guide you in identifying existing opportunities and opening the way to new and even more favorable possibilities. It's up to you, though, to use the information here, along with your free will, to determine the road on which you want to journey and the distance you wish to travel. No matter your age, the roads are open when you are ready to explore.

Some talents and characteristics surface at different times in your life. Occasionally, a characteristic described in this report has been present in an earlier part of your life and is not of current importance. Sometimes, a talent mentioned here is present although you may not be fully aware of it. If this is the case, check with a friend who knows you well and you may be pleasantly surprised. A few characteristics may not have appeared in your life as yet although they're described in this report. The description of these undeveloped potentials may serve to open your consciousness to new and exciting possibilities.

---

OVERVIEW

There are several different sides to your character but your energy is primarily pointed in two contrary directions. A good part of you is probably devoted to people—loving, giving and responsible—but another strong side of you is free-spirited and adventurous—at least in spirit but often in fact—and doesn't want to feel restrained in any way. During your youth and young adulthood, you'll struggle to balance your desire to give to others in a responsible manner with your need to do your own thing with as little sense of responsibility as possible. You'll probably sometimes take care of one and sometimes the other, but rarely to your complete satisfaction. As you get older, you'll probably learn how to balance your generous, helping side with your free-spirited side so that you can feel comfortable with both.

YOUR SOCIAL AND CREATIVE TALENTS— AND HOW YOU SCATTER YOUR ENERGIES

Your 3 Life Path And 3 Soul Urge

You were born with a special gift, the potential to experience great delight in the pleasures of life. You sometimes affirm this delight with exhilarating enthusiasm, sometimes savor it with intense but quiet pleasure. One of your major lessons in life is to learn to fully appreciate and express this wonderful joy in living. You probably enjoy people and spend considerable time socializing, either with many friends in varied activities or in the company of a few intimates engaged in quiet diversions. You're also apt to enjoy using your considerable creative ability. You're likely to use your social and creative abilities in your career as well as in your personal life.

You're probably the kind of person who often gives much to your friends. They're apt to appreciate your openness, humor, warmth and affection as well as your charm and graciousness. During your younger years, you may be relatively quiet, sharing your warmth and fun with only a few close friends or in special situations. As you get older, you'll probably choose to widen the circle of those who enjoy your special good cheer. As you develop your capabilities, you may expand the areas in which you express that wonderful joy of living to a wider and wider circle.

Some people with this kind of energy, though, often seem little interested in experiencing or sharing their delightful potential. If you're moody and inexpressive in your younger years, you may, even when older, choose to share only a small part of yourself with others. You may have to expend considerable effort to become more open and expressive.

You have a good imagination along with your creative ability. You probably spend considerable time enjoying your creative pursuits. You probably express yourself well verbally and it wouldn't be surprising if you involve yourself, at least part of the time, in activities related to your voice or to words. You may have some singing or acting talent, or you may enjoy writing or lecturing. Since you instinctively know the best way to present material and information, you could be a natural at teaching or selling. You would probably also be a good conversationalist. Like your social ability, you may express little of your creative talent in your youth and adolescence and, instead, display it more and more as you get older.

---

You can be most adaptable at times. You're probably involved in many different activities and can move easily from one interest to another. As a matter of fact, you probably scatter your energies among your many interests in whimsical or careless ways which keep you from accomplishing as much as you would like. This undisciplined approach is likely to cause you some frustration and resentment. You probably have to learn to limit your interests and curtail some of your frivolous or superficial diversions in order to achieve more of your desired goals.

YOUR LOVING, RESPONSIBLE NATURE— AND YOUR UNACKNOWLEDGED NEEDS

Your 6 Expression

There's another side of your personality—along with the social and creative part—which is probably just as important in determining your general character.

You are able to comfort, help and serve others less able than yourself. You probably devote much of your effort to other people. Others will recognize your responsible ways and turn to you for the support and understanding you can provide. With your caring nature, you may choose a people-oriented line of work, possibly involving your teaching or counseling abilities. Although your sense of responsibility is one of your important strengths, you may have to learn that you don't have to be responsible for everything or everybody.

You are a sympathetic, appreciative, kind and generous individual with a considerable understanding of other people's feelings. You have deep feelings yourself and often express those feelings, usually in a clear and direct manner. At times, though, you may get too emotional and find that you have difficulty saying what you want clearly enough so that others understand. At other times, you're apt to express only part of your feelings in order to avoid expected criticism. On occasion, you may become worried or anxious, and your fault-finding manner at these times is likely to upset those who prefer your gentler side.

Much of your activity is apt to revolve around your home and family, but you may be surprised at how much work is involved in marriage and parenting. Your spouse, children and others who are lucky enough to be in your intimate circle of relatives and friends enjoy your friendly, affectionate and loving ways and probably give you love and affection in return.

You're probably the one in the family who helps settle arguments and keeps everything running smoothly. Most people see your ability to create harmony and you're likely to be called on, both at home and at work, to help when the situation seems to be out of balance. Because you're often willing to give so much to others, you don't always acknowledge or respond to your own needs so that you run the risk of becoming a doormat. You can be as self-sacrificing as the occasion requires, but you have to be careful to limit the exacting demands to which you respond so that you don't get overwhelmed. You may also have to learn not to expect anywhere near your own selfless approach from your family and close friends. You'll have to learn, too, not to repress your own needs but rather to recognize and take care of your interests so that you don't get frustrated and resentful. This is likely to be one of your important lessons.

---

Some people with your kind of caring energy, though, don't always take care of their responsibilities when those responsibilities interfere with their other activities. If you find yourself avoiding your obligations, you may have much to learn about the satisfaction of giving to others. Even if you're concerned about other people, you may still have to learn to distinguish between helping and interfering.

With your flexibility, patience and feeling for others, you are apt to work well with the young, the old and the ill. There's an artistic side to you, too, and you may enjoy expressing in music or other artistic endeavors. The beauty of your home and surroundings are likely to be of particular concern to you.

Your 2 Karmic Lesson

Although you have a sensitive nature, a diplomatic manner and a considerate outlook, you probably don't use these traits all the time. You may, for instance, overlook your understanding of others at times when your own needs feel more important. You'll find that the more you make good use of the sensitive side of your nature, the easier your relations with others will be and the more you're likely to be appreciated.

YOUR DEPENDABLE BUSINESSLIKE SIDE

Your 8 Birthday

Your considerate and emotional side is an important part of your character. There's another side, too, but it appears to be of much lesser influence.

When you want to, you can demonstrate your executive and administrative abilities. At these times, your good business sense and your interest in money and possessions are also likely to be seen.

You're probably a good judge of character and also exhibit good judgment and understanding with money. When it suits you, you can approach your work in a practical, logical, down-to-earth way and, when necessary, can demonstrate the imagination necessary for commercial success.

At times, you have strong and ambitious needs—for money, material comfort, status or power—but, by and large, you keep your ambitions within reasonable limits. On occasion, you may strain after possessions with little thought of other considerations, but this isn't likely to be a frequent occurrence. You're capable of exerting a good deal of power, even dominating people or situations, but it's unlikely that you'll do this very often.

---

You may, at times, be very demanding of yourself and expect the same high standards from your associates. You have a stubborn streak which shows itself on occasion, and your rigidity and one-track view can also cause difficulties. You are able to stand firm with the courage of your convictions when you want to, but there are also times when you hurt your own interests because of the fixity of your approach.

SUMMARY

You may start out in life feeling weak and relatively dependent—or you may start out in life feeling free-spirited but limited in expression. When you mature, though, you are likely to be neither dependent nor restricted. When you learn to combine the beauty of the loving, giving, responsible side of your personality with the delight of the enthusiastic, creative and versatile side of your character, you are likely to find a great deal of satisfaction in your life. As you mature, you'll probably learn to give a great deal to other people while taking care of your own need for variety and excitement.